

TSOM-S Journal Notes

Contrast

He was defiant.
He continued to be defiant.

Oppositionally defiant disorder.
Oppositionally defiant state.

'disorder' implies biogenetic malfunction. And it implies the entire psychiatric theory.

A psychiatrist will say that this is a permanent biogenetic malfunction, only recourse meds, dependency for life. One intellectually capable and genuine psychiatrist - APA professional standard -- said to me, "Meds are the foundation."

He had not once discussed with me a single view, matter of view, fact of view, point of view, observation of view, thought, speech, or action.* He had not discussed with me a single item from the 302 complaint, nor the entire set.

* Over an interval of 23 days.

Is there a description of say an existent world-state 'oppositionally Dr. Seuss story state'?

In the DSM? In the DSM V? In the DSM V in 2020 CE? In the DSM V in 2020 CE, United States?

we don't have a word for 'he drew an edge, in meaning-form'

he made a chiseled statement
he made an etched statement

NeXTstep, the graphical user interface, and its use, would suggest, "one can make a chiseled statement".

He hammered.
There is a hammer.
He used a hammer.

He used a word to.
He expressed the concept.
He made a chiseled statement.

He created in mind.
He created in mind A.
He created in mind chiseled A.
He created in mind s[o].
He created in mind s[o] f. "f = function"

He created in mind s[o] m. "m = model"
He created in mind s[o] e. "e = existence"
He created in mind s[o] state.

He created in mind (given w1-no-things) s[o] model -> moA. Call this world state wsA.

This can be read as, "He created in mind s[o], kept it in mind, and also applied it through a model yielding moA, and then had the representations 1) w1-no-things (as input items to s[o]), 2) s[o] itself, 3) model itself, 4) the result moA ... in mind at a time, in the present moment. w1-no-things refers to w1 is world-1 (the world-space so considered, and, the no-things A within the world-1, and world-1 may be the entire world, world within a world, world segment, or otherwise).

He put wsA, or an object-space thing from it, to, at, or said ....

wsA is world-state-A or world-space-A, depending on what one wants.
